From the highways and byways of the world-wherever food grows at its best-Kroger imports the choicest of the choice.

Here are delicacies to tempt the palate of the epicure dainties seen on the Carte du Jour of the world's most famous hotels. But Kroger's prices are, in general, less than half those of the delicatessen.

Krager Stores are not just grocery stores any more than the "Century" is just a train. Kroger Stores are an institution that stands for supreme quality and service that does things in a big way. The character of our merchandise proves it!

Fellowes has put up a new bungalow which attracts the eyes of Pamela Vereker, sister of Jack Vereker, who is a husiness associate of Arandill. Miss Vereker tells Fellowes that Arundill hates him like poison; that Arundill is not playing square with his employers, and that he is constantly annoying her with proposals of marriage. Pamela alro tells Fellowes that she believes Arundill is plotting the death of her brother, simply because he knows too nuch about his affairs. Pamela says that two shots fired in the air will be n signal that she is in danger. Now lack Vereker is called away on business for Arundill, and he asks Fel-

"On the contrary, Look here, Fel-owes, I don't think I quite follow you. What in the name of goodness are you driving at?" Corrigan's second in command held his head obliquely. "I'm not very well up in these matters; it had never occurred to me that a woman like Miss Vereker would want to hang around with a feller for a week or ten days on end. As far as I'm conerned, there's nothing I'd like better in the world.'

Vereker thrust his bands into his nockets. "I wish you meant that," he said. The taller man gasped.

"You said there was nothing you'd ike better."

"There isn't." "I wish from the bottom of my heart could believe you. It'd case my mind tremendously. D'you think I don't know," he continued fiercely, "what Arundill's game is with regard to us both? D'you think I don't reclize what an ass I was to show my hand? Every time he's sent me on there foolish errands I've suffered agonies of mind for her sake. Arundili wants Pamela-and e'd like to know I was at the bottom of the sea. Vereker returned his grip warmly.

A figure stepped jauntily on to the path and deposited a hurricane lamp on the ground at Fellowes' feet. He faced the first assistant, his hands resting lightly on his hips, his head and houlders thrust farword.

"I expect you know me well enough a now," he said thickly. "I'm Armdill and I'd be interested to learn why you find it necessary to trespass on territory."

A cold glenm came into Fellowes' eye. "I'm afraid that's my affair." "Oh. I'm not suggestin' you look in a frequently to see me!"

Who are the Capitalists?

Has the thought ever occurred to you that the real capitalists in this country are not the rich, but the stockholders in railroads, policyholders in life insurance companies, the depositors in the savings banks and the beneficiaries of charitable and educational foundations and other trust funds? These are the people who suffer when demagogues attack the railroads and other public utilities, according to a statement made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Nearly 1,000,000 stockholders and 2,000,000 bondholders in the railroads, 50,000,000 policyholders, 20,000,000 depositors are the real owners of these properties whose securities form so large a part of the funds accumulated by Trustees for protection against the blight of death and the helplessness of old age. It has been said: "it is the small accumulations of the many, rather than the larger holdings of the few, which make up the wealth of a nation."

Has the thought ever occurred to you how many millions of employes and their families, as well as all industries down through the neighborhood grocery and drug store are dependent upon the success of the railroads? When the railroads are forced to retrench, have you ever stopped to think how many employes must be thrown out of work? As a result their families suffer, the butcher, the baker and the candiestick maker suffer because purchasing power has been decreased to the degree of the number of men who have been laid off.

When the railroads stop buying it has the same effect upon the steel, lumber, brick and, in fact, all industries. It means the closing down and shortening the hours of work in all factories and increasing by thousands the number of the unemployed.

If the public understands how dependent the whole country is upon the railroads' prosperity, the people quickly would turn down the misguided politician, who, through ignorance or otherwise, is trying to hamper or stop their growth. Don't politicalize the railroads.

W. J. HARAHAN, President, The Chesapeake and Ohio Rallway.

Many Surprises

Portsmouth people had quite a surprise when they have perchance dropped into the Classic this week. Such a gorgeous array of candy was never before gathered together in this city. There were wreaths of candy, edar chests filled with delicious chocolates and ben bons, candy cause from the midget size on up to a size larger than grand-father's old cane. Box candy could be had in any of your favorite makes and in as large or small a lox as you desired. The innuagement has gone the limit in trying to have for the people of Portsmouth a supply of candy that is sure to meet every taste and every purse.
